

Any action you take to allow banks or any other big business to again plague us with unwanted telemarketing would be proof that you have absolutely no intention of protecting the general public from leeches who are out to scam the public. The telephone service I have is for MY convenience and MY use, and not intended for a bunch of blood suckers to badger me day & night with stupidity and in doing so are invading my privacy.